Introduction

The records of the Department of Community and Preventive Medicine at the Medical College of Pennsylvania are comprised of approximately 27 linear feet of professional, personnel, scholarly and departmental records spanning the years from 1953 to 1991. Collection contains restricted material in the form of personnel, student and medical records. Confidential material is open only upon written application and approval from the Department Chair and the Director of Archives.

Processing Note

A project to identify, arrange and describe the records of the Community and Preventive Medicine Department of the Medical College of Pennsylvania was begun in July of 1991 as a joint effort of the Department of Community and Preventive Medicine and the Archives and Special Collections on Women in Medicine. Special moneys from the Department of Community and Preventive Medicine's Katherine Boucot Sturgis Fund supported the purchase of acid-free folders and record cartons and the hiring of Susan Shifrin to develop the preliminary inventories of the collection, provide physical conservation and rehousing of the collection, and write the original draft of the finding aid. Funds from the Archives and Special Collections on Women in Medicine supported the final arrangement of the records and the writing of the final version of the guide to the collection by the Archives staff.

History of the Department

Preventive medicine has been an integral part of medical education at the Medical College of Pennsylvania almost since its inception as the Female Medical College of Pennsylvania in 1850. References to courses concerned with the teaching of "hygiene," the "prevention of disease," and "preventive medicine" appear in the Annual Announcements of the Female Medical College and Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania as early as 1852. Indeed, in the Announcement of 1888/89-1889/90, it is recorded that the Alumnae Association appointed a committee to "devise a plan for raising a sum of money sufficient for the endowment of a CHAIR OF PREVENTIVE MEDICINE..." It was not until 1921 that the Chair of Preventive Medicine was endowed at Woman's Medical College as a tribute to Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, M.D. on the part of the National Woman Suffrage Association.

Dr. Martha Tracy, Doctor of Public Hygiene and Professor of Chemistry and Hygiene at the College was the first faculty member to occupy the Anna Howard Shaw Chair. The Annual Announcements indicate that the department which grew around the new position changed its appellation from "Department of Hygiene" to "Department of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine" in 1926, then to "Department of Preventive Medicine" in 1931, and finally to the "Department of Community and Preventive Medicine" in 1972, when Ira Gabrielson assumed his post as department Chair.

Over the years, the Department of Community and Preventive Medicine has continued to extend its research and educational activities beyond the campus. It has long been a leader in meeting community needs for health education. As early as 1916, the College introduced a series of lectures on "Health Problems of Everyday Life," a series which covered such topics as: "Normal Activities of the Human Body," "Conditions and Care in Old Age," "Dangers from Impure Food," "Problems of Prenatal Care," and "The Care and Feeding of Children."

Scope of Collection

The records of the Department of Community and Preventive Medicine at the Medical College of Pennsylvania are comprised of approximately 27 linear feet of professional, personnel, scholarly and departmental records. Although the collection spans the years from 1953 to 1991, the bulk of the material dates from 1963 to 1983, reflecting the tenure in the Department of Judith S. Mausner, M.D., whose files constitute ninety percent of the entire collection.

The collection also includes administrative and research files of Ira W. Gabrielson, M.D., and administrative files of Eddy A. Bresnitz, M.D. While Professor of Public Health Administration and Maternal and Child Health, Dr. Gabrielson was chairman of the Department from 1972 to 1989, when he was succeeded by Dr. Bresnitz, Associate Professor of Medicine and Associate Professor of Epidemiology.

A nominal amount of material from the files of Katherine Boucot Sturgis, chair of the Department from 1962-1968, can also be found in this collection.

The collection is arranged in eight series, as follows:

Series 1: Department Affairs, 1954-1991
Contains reports, correspondence, memoranda, proposals, minutes, budgets and other material pertaining to the Department of Community and Preventive Medicine's internal workings as well as its relationship to the Medical College and the community at large. Also includes correspondence of Ira Gabrielson which pertains primarily to his activities as department chair.
Series 2: Course Administration, 1953-1986
Material relates primarily to the development and planning of individual courses or of the routine management of courses. Files contain correspondence with guest speakers and host institutions for field trips; memoranda to faculty and students; and proposed course schedules, and syllabi.

Series 3: Course Materials, 1953-1986
Series contains materials which were used in instructing students in community and preventive medicine. The files contain schedules, reading lists, lectures, handbooks, exercises, project assignments, readings, instructors' notes, course evaluations, field trip information, agenda and evaluations. The Sophomore or Second-Year course is the most heavily represented course in the series, followed by materials pertaining to the Senior Course. Also well-documented are courses in the Principles of Medical Research and in Biostatistics.

While the series overlaps somewhat with Dr. Gabrielson's correspondence in Series 1: Department Affairs, it primarily reflects Gabrielson's professional work apart from department administration. Files contain correspondence and memoranda; Gabrielson's recommendations of colleagues and students; articles by Gabrielson and his reviews of manuscripts; press releases; grants; reprints, articles and pamphlets. Also included is some personal material in the form of correspondence with the Johns Hopkins University Medical School Alumni Society, and Gabrielson's post-retirement correspondence with colleagues at the Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Judith Mausner came to Woman's Medical College in 1963 as Assistant Professor of Epidemiology. She had earned her B.A. from Queens College, her M.D. from New York Medical College, and her M.P.H. from the University of Pittsburgh. In 1970, she was promoted to the rank of Associate Professor, and, in 1978, to the rank of full Professor. She remained at the Medical College of Pennsylvania until her death from cancer in 1983 at the age of fifty-nine. Mausner's research, as represented in her files, was prolific, including studies of physician suicide, hypertension in the infants of hypertensive mothers, and the epidemiology of cancer. Early on in her career at the Medical College, she collaborated with Dr. Katherine Boucot, Chair of the Department of Preventive Medicine from 1962-1968, in a study of the smoking habits of physicians and medical students. Later, she collaborated with Dr. Anita K. Bahn, a faculty member of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School who had previously held the positions of Associate Professor of Biostatistics (1966-1976), Deputy Chairman of Preventive Medicine (1968-1970) and Acting Chairman of Preventive Medicine (1970-71) at Woman's Medical College, to produce the textbook Epidemiology, An Introductory Text.

Dr. Mausner's files include professional and departmental correspondence, grant applications, research protocols and data (along with sensitive subject and patient data), reports on completed studies and studies in progress, lecture notes, course materials (both from the courses which she taught at the Medical College and elsewhere, and from those taught by other faculty members) and articles and reprints. The collection includes virtually no personal correspondence.

Series 6: Mausner Reference Files

Consists of reprints, pamphlets, proceedings, reports, clippings and other material used by Mausner in her course instruction and non-pedagogical work. Also included are handwritten notes and scattered related correspondence.

Series 7: Faculty Files, 1963-1991 [RESTRICTED ACCESS]

Contains correspondence and memoranda regarding faculty appointments, salary, benefits, tenure, etc, as well as curriculum vitae of individual faculty members.

Series 8: Student Data, 1968-1985 [RESTRICTED ACCESS]

Files in this series contain correspondence regarding student academic performance, class lists, internship recommendations and assignments, match lists, award nominations and recommendations, class photographs, report forms, graded exams and papers, evaluations of students, and final grades.
